

Abstract

A double post card system facilitates the authorization of payment of a service fee for a returned check. A communication with a detachable, pre-printed post card is described. The double post card system is used in conjunction with a semi-automated process for printing a double post card by filling a pre-defined layout with data from a database containing a record pertaining to the returned check.

5